

REFUND POLICY

The Tech Destiny disclaims all liabilities and confirms that it shall at its sole discretion determine on whether a refund of payment made on Error! Hyperlink reference not valid. (Here in after referred to as “Website”) shall be approved or not.

After availing for a particular course on the website and making the payment thereto, if any Users desires to not proceed with that course, he/she will have the option to switch to different course available on the website provided that the Users have not attended a single online class of the course availed earlier. In the event where the Users have attended any online class of the course availed earlier, the option to switch to a different course will not be available to the Users. The Users shall request for the switch of the course within 7 days of making the payment on the website, & there will be no refund after getting access of the LMS beyond which The Tech Destiny reserves the right to not entertain any such request.

The User shall read and understand the details of the course and its subjective nature before making the payment for a course on the Website.

For a Refund request, the User may submit a request on the Website, and a representative will contact the User at his/her registered mobile number provided by the User on Website while registering for a course. The Refund request shall be entertained and processed only if the company has failed to provide the course availed by the User within 7 days of course starting date. In no other circumstance, the company shall process a refund request.

The Tech Destiny shall at its the sole discretion refund the payment to the User and further reserves the right to deduct an amount as a charge for service being rendered to the User. All the refunds shall be credited to the source from which the payment has been made by the User. The refund once initiated shall be credited to the User’s account after the deduction of a service charge, within 7 business days.